Quay View School

Quay View School is an independent specialist school in West Devon, situated in the Bere Peninsula, a world heritage site.

The school supports up to 44 students aged 7 to 19 years with identified special educational needs including trauma and attachment related conditions, autism and social, emotional and mental health (SEMH) needs.

Quay View School provides day placements for students from a wide catchment across Devon and Cornwall.

Supporting the needs of the young people

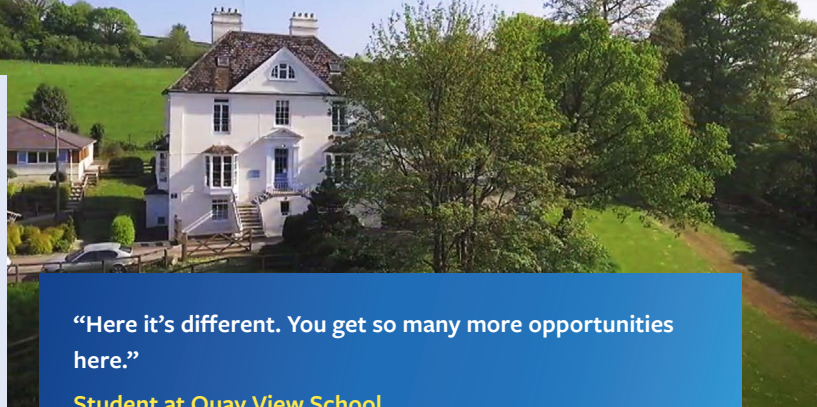

Quay View School has a high staff to student ratio and adapts the curriculum to meet individual needs. The school has specialist qualified Teachers and specialist Teaching Assistants, alongside a wellbeing team which includes therapy and pastoral services to support student engagement and welfare.

The school strives to ensure that every child and young person can learn, develop and grow, whilst building their resilience in a safe and nurturing environment. This enables and prepares them to make a successful transition into adult life. From a foundation of safety, we aspire to support everyone within our school to develop positive lifestyles and grow as individuals.
